Therefore, our standards and procedures for administering examinations are focused on: giving candidates comparable opportunities to demonstrate their abilities and preventing any candidate from gaining an unfair advantage over others. Therefore, we reserve the right to cancel or withhold any examination scores when, in our judgment, there has been a breach in examination security; a candidate failed or refused to adhere to examination security protocols; a candidate failed to follow instructions or directions provided by any member of the test administration staff; a testing irregularity is identified; unusual answer patterns; unusual score increases from one examination to another; inconsistent performance on different parts of the exam; there is an apparent discrepancy in, or falsification of a candidate's identification; a candidate engages in misconduct; the scores are believed to be invalid for any other reason.

The Alliance and/or their designee reserve the right in all cases to report the reason for a score cancellation. The Alliance also reserves the right to prohibit a candidate from taking an Alliance examination in the future, as well as perusing other remedies and/or actions available.

5. You agree to be personally and financially responsible, for any and all of your actions, direct or indirect which in anyway may cause a breach of examination security, which may jeopardize, or in any way compromise the content or integrity of the Alliance certification program, to include, but not limited to being financially responsible for any and all losses, fees, costs and expenses associated with any compromise of examination related materials, to include, but not limited to examination development or examination research and development; investigation(s), attorney fees and costs, court costs, etc.

Notification of Examination Results

Most candidates will receive notification of their pass/fail status as soon as they have completed the computer-based examination at the testing center. Electronic scoring is instantaneous; the results will be printed by the examination proctor and given to the candidate on site.

Candidates will receive notification of their pass/fail status following the examination in accordance with established score-reporting procedures. Candidates who do not pass the examination may receive diagnostic information regarding their performance to assist in identifying areas for future improvement. Diagnostic information, when provided, does not alter the candidate's overall pass/fail determination.

Candidates who pilot test a new form of the examination will receive a letter when they have completed their exam, informing them that they will receive their examination results via US Postal Service within approximately 6 to 8 weeks of their examination date.

Rescoring the Examination

Requests to re-score the examination must be submitted in writing to and received by the Alliance within 30 days of the postmarked date on the formal letter of notification of test results. Upon receipt of such a request, the examination answers will be rescored and the results sent to the candidate within 6 weeks. The candidate will be assessed a $150 re-scoring fee if no error is found.

Retaking the Examination

Candidates who fail the certification examination may reapply to retake it as often as desired, provided they continue to meet the eligibility requirements and submit a new application and required fees for each attempt.

The Examination

Examination Preparation

The validated Content Outline can be used to identify areas of content represented on the test. The five subject matter domains within the Outline describe information that Healthcare CPD professionals across the broad spectrum of the Healthcare CPD enterprise can be expected to know. Organizations may want to form internal study groups to prepare for the examination, as a method of supporting continuing professional development for their staff.

CBT Tutorial

Candidates for certification can take a tutorial to become familiar with the computer-based test (CBT) engine used at our testing centers. This demonstration is posted online, is free of charge, and can be accessed 24/7 from your own computer.

A list of resources can be found on the Alliance website.

Scoring the Examination

The passing score for the CHCP Certification Examination is established using a systematic, criterion-referenced standard-setting process involving qualified subject matter experts and professional psychometric support. Candidate examination results are reported in accordance with established scoring procedures. Candidates who meet or exceed the established passing standard receive a passing result; candidates who do not meet the passing standard receive a failing result and may receive diagnostic performance information to assist with future examination preparation.

Candidate scores are not reported as a raw score (the number of questions answered correctly) but rather as a scaled or weighted score. Candidates who pass the examination will be informed that they have passed; candidates who fail the examination will receive scaled scores reported for the five content domains, to identify areas for future improvement.

Although much care is taken to ensure that all forms of the examination are similar, new forms may vary somewhat in level of difficulty from earlier ones. Proper psychometric procedures are employed to make certain that all test forms are equivalent in difficulty. Scores are calculated as scaled or weighted scores that take into account the difficulty of the question. The degree of difficulty is determined by SMEs referred to above. To prevent candidates who took a less difficult form of the examination from having an unwarranted advantage over those who took a slightly more difficult form, raw scores are converted to scaled scores that represent comparable levels of achievement.

Each certification examination will contain newly created test items; previously used test items may remain on subsequent exams, or may be discarded, depending upon the statistical analysis of their performance.

Confidentiality of Examination Results

Individual examination results are released only to the candidate. No pass/fail information will be provided over the telephone. In response to specific inquiries, and with permission of the individual candidate, confirmation of current CHCP status will be provided.

Use of the CHCP Certification

Upon receiving notification of having passed the certification exam, successful candidates may use the designation of “CHCP” after their names. Certified Healthcare CPD Professionals will receive a certificate. The Alliance for Continuing Education in the Health Professions (Alliance) does not discriminate against candidates for certification on the basis of race, religion, gender, national origin, marital status, sexual orientation, age or disability. The Alliance and its testing vendors make every effort to reasonably accommodate candidates with documented disabilities as defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).

Required Documentation for Disability Accommodation Requests

If you have a disability as defined under the ADA, it is your responsibility to notify the Alliance of your disability and your recommendations for alternative arrangements at the time of applying to sit for the exam. You must notify the Alliance by emailing this form and the Disability Report described below to acehp@acehp.org at least one month prior to your requested testing date.

The Disability Report must be on the physician's or other qualified medical professional's letterhead; typed, dated and signed by the medical professional. The report must document the following information:

Approved accommodation may not fundamentally alter the purpose, content, competencies assessed, or passing standard of the examination.
- The Alliance may not provide the accommodation requested but may determine a reasonable alternative accommodation.
- The Alliance must approve, modify, or deny the accommodation and provide communication to each candidate. All accommodation outcomes must be communicated prior to issuing an admittance letter for the exam.

- Each accommodation request is reviewed on an individualized basis. Approval of an accommodation for one candidate does not guarantee approval of the same accommodation for another candidate or for future examination administrations.
